

JANUARY Nature Journal

January is midsummer, the weather is hot and humid, cicadas are singing, eucalypts are losing their bark, the spring babies are maturing, snakes are active, dragonflies are mating. The oceans are warmer and blue bottles wash up. Christmas Bells and Christmas Bush are in flower. Snakes and lizards shed their skins. Lady birds and butterflies are about.

Date

Time

Weather

Wind

What did you see, smell, hear or touch?

Add to the list above.

Draw a picture or add a photo and describe what you discovered today.

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....